

Trusting Christ as My Life Looks Like

I give up the right to being:	I am willing to feel and to be:	I trust Christ as:
Accepted	Rejected	My very life
Acceptable	Unacceptable	My source and provision
Avoid Conflict	Confronted	My most intimate relationship
Understood	Misunderstood	My sense of "OK" ness
In Control	Out of Control	My acceptance
Look perfect	Make mistakes	My righteousness
Successful	Unsuccessful	My understanding friend
Seen as a success	Seen as a failure	My father and daddy
Competent	Inadequate	My husband and brother
Strong	Weak	My adequacy and sufficiency
Stay angry; hold a grudge	Forgive other	My identity
Loved	Unloved	My comfort and peace
Smart	Considered dumb	My strength and support
Treated Fairly	Mistreated	My protector
Rescued	Abandoned	My Savior
Listened to	Ignored	My defender
Encouraged, built up	Put down; criticized	My security
Noticed	Invisible	My significance
Appreciated	Taken for granted	My wisdom discernment
Respected	Viewed as insignificant	My redeemer
Trusted	Viewed with suspicion	I live through Christ in:
Defend yourself	Falsely accused	Boldness and confidence
Married	Single	Sharing with others
Have companionship	Alone	Accepting others
Comfortable	In pain	Loving the unlovable
Honored	Overlooked	Service within my Church
Proud	Humbled; embarrassed	Witnessing, setting goals
Financially secure	Poor; lacking	Taking chances
Right	Wrong	Being assertive
Relying on the wisdom of men	Led by the Spirit	Accepting myself and others
		Being flexible and relaxed
